

Inspiration in HR Award

The Inspiration in HR Award is to recognise the work of Human Resources professionals. Now in its 15th year, the award is open to either individuals or organisations and runs with the support of IFSEC Global. Entries can be self-nominated; judges are looking for best practice in Human Resource Management where an organisation recognises that HR is a business enabler and partner in managing a successful business.

To reach the shortlist organisations will have demonstrated that they are quality focused and have a pride in looking after and developing their workforce. You will see a partnership in HR and operations management. Shortlisted companies see their HR function as giving them a competitive edge, they clearly demonstrate going above and beyond any current standards as you have to be a quality provider to make the Inspiration in HR shortlist.

This award recognises a critical differentiator in business application. Previous winners and short-listed organisations for this award have proven their credentials. Service sectors rely on teams of people operating across several environments, from customer-focused settings through to those that require an in-depth knowledge of technology. For their part, Human Resources professionals play a key role in the selection, training, and monitoring of thousands of individuals across these different spheres.

The Inspiration in HR Award provides these professionals with the recognition they so richly deserve. As always, the winner will be presented with their prize during the Security & Fire IFSEC Global annual awards.

This year, the event takes place at The London Hilton Hotel, Park Lane on Tuesday 23rd November 2021. The winners will be profiled in a leading industry publication. Entries should be received by Tuesday 7th September 2021 and submitted by e-mail to: awards@ssr-personnel.com
