

Inspiration in HR Award...

Showcase your business as a quality people-focused organisation by recognising the work of Human Resources professionals and partner organisations. Entries can be self-nominated; judges are looking for best practices in Human Resource Management.

This could be a person within your organisation or a client. Perhaps they are in your HR team mobilising a new contract or introducing employee training and development programmes. They could be a recruitment partner or a technology organisation that gives a competitive edge to your business.

Shortlisted organisations will have demonstrated they are quality-focused and are a people-centric organisation. Past winners have been HR leaders, installers & integrators and security guarding companies.

Judges are looking for evidence of a partnership between all stakeholders. Shortlisted companies are those that see their HR function going above and beyond any current industry and quality standards.

Service sectors rely on teams of people operating across many environments, from customer-focused settings to those that require an in-depth application of technology. Human Resources professionals are key in staff selection and training to meet changing threats.

Now in its 19th year, the award is open to either individuals or organisations and runs with the support of IFSEC Global and SSR® Personnel.

The winner will be presented with their award during the Security & Fire IFSEC Global on Monday 1st December 2025

Venue:

JW Marriott Grosvenor House, Park Lane, London
